REPORT NO.

THE FOLLOWING REPORT WAS PREVIOUSLY 25X1A

In the anticipation of important changes being made in United States Far Eastern policy as a result of General Marshall's recent trip to Japan and Korea, Marshal Malinowski, commander of the Soviet Far Eastern Army, decided to transfer three Soviet infantry divisions, two Soviet paratroop divisions, and one Soviet armored car division from Siberia to Sakhalin and the Kuril Islands. The Soviet Third Air Division at Khabarovsk is also to be transferred to Sakhalin. All of these units are scheduled to arrive at their new stations before the end of June 1951.
